ESTATE

The initial Rutini Wines winery was founded in 1885 by Felipe Rutini, one of the pioneers of the Argentine wine industry, in Coquimbito, Maipú. In 1925, Rutini Wines became the first winery to plant vineyards in the now world renowned wine region of Tupungato. Today, Rutini Wines has 470 hectares of vineyards in Mendoza, planted strategically across varying sub-regions and altitudes: 370 hectares in Tupungato, 1,235m above sea level; 70 hectares in Altamira, 1,100m above sea level and 30 hectares in La Consulta, 950m above sea level.

Following many years production at the old winery in Maipú, in 2008, Rutini Wines built one of the most technologically advanced wineries in the Uco Valley, eighty years after having planted the first vines in the region. This new winery was designed by Rutini Wines' head winemaker, Mariano di Paula who, by his own admission, is obsessed with quality as well as innovation. As a result, this new winery boasts some of the most innovative vinification equipment available: two optical grape selectors, over 10 different fermentation tank sizes including conical tanks (designed by Mariano), and a high specification, climate-controlled barrel room consisting of over 3,000 barrels - 90% French and 10% American.

“Mariano di Paola is one of the most experienced and knowledgeable winemakers in Argentina. I have enormous respect for what he has achieved at Rutini. Rutini is today one of the main wineries to discover the advance of the Argentinean wine industry.”
