

SAVIAN CABERNET FRANC BIO DOC VENEZIA 2017

Wine Introduction

This is a red wine that expresses quality, derived from the natural wine-growing ecosystem between the Livenza and Tagliamento Rivers, where the provinces of Venice, Pordenone and Treviso meet. The wine is crafted using the most modern and state-of-the-art wine making techniques to enhance the quality of the wine.

Tasting Notes

It has an intense ruby red colour with a tint of purple. Its bouquet has a distinctly characteristic and persistent herbaceous note. A full-bodied, generous, well-structured, nearly "aristocratic" wine. As it ages the herbaceous note integrates beautifully and its taste becomes elegant and harmonious.

Winemaker Vinification Notes

The vinification of this wine follows the typical red winemaking process. The fruit was de-stemmed and left on skins in stainless steel open top tank fermenters for about 10 days, with fermentation taking place at a controlled temperature.

Winemaker Vintage Notes

Winter 2016/2017, with the exception of the month of January, was mild with low precipitation. Thanks to these unusual conditions, the vegetative awakening of the vine was early. At the end of March, the first buds were ready to sprout – a fortnight earlier than usual.

For many years no such uniform and regular budding was seen. But on 20, 21 and 22 April, a mass of cold air reached our areas, bringing three nights of minimum temperatures below zero and frosts. The shock for the vines was strong, because after the cold weather, an unstable and varied period of weather followed.

The 2017 harvest followed the trend of previous years. The first two weeks of harvest at the end of August, were characterised by high temperatures during the day and by cooler nights. Given the high temperatures, harvesting took place only during the morning, as it was generally cooler. September brought the first rains.

In conclusion, the 2017 vintage was more difficult than one might believe. Frost, heat, hail and rain followed each other over a period of six months.
